

LOCAL COMPANY NAMED IN LIST

DISPATCH FROM MADISON SAYS
ELECTRIC COMPANY IS WARNED TO COMPLY WITH LAW.

NO NOTIFICATION RECEIVED

General Manager Korst Can Not Understand the Purpose of the Report As No Word Has Been Received From Commission.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 14.—The Janesville Electric Company is among the six electric light and gas companies in the state who have been notified that they are not complying with the legal requirements and that their gas and electric service must be maintained at the standard fixed by commission.

The other cities affected are Mineral Point, Eagle River, Montello, Dodgeville and Mauston as well as numerous water companies. Gross failure to comply with orders of the commission establishing standards for gas and electric service, is charged. The commission has quietly investigated conditions, it became known today.

They are given ten days within which to comply with those standards, or legal proceedings will be taken by the rate board. The penalty for violation of the order is $100 to $1,000 fine for each offense.

P. H. Korst, manager of the Janesville Electric Company could not understand the above dispatch as his company has not received any official word from the state railroad commission that they had failed to comply with the law in any way.

"Every six to thirty days," said Mr. Korst today, "the inspectors for the state railroad commission visit cities with gas and electric plants and make tests of the pressure furnished to consumers. These reports, and the places and time of testing, are sent to the commission and if they should happen to fall below the standard prescribed by the law, the local companies are notified and the matter remedied."

"When we have received notice of this kind, and almost every public utility company in the state has as well, we have instantly remedied the fault and so reported to the railroad rate commission. In so much as we have not received any notification from the commission, we have violated the law requirements I can not understand the above dispatch."

"The inspectors visited Janesville within the last thirty days, but we have received no reports of their inspection showing that we were found in any way. In our service to consumers, should any report come in later it is certain to be merely for some trivial matter which can be quickly remedied."

BANCROFT SEEKING CHANGE IN RULING

Wants Permission to Name His Own
Assistant for Confidential Places.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 14.—Whether or not Attorney General L. V. Bancroft will be allowed by the civil service commission to appoint as second assistant attorney general a lawyer who is not on the list of eligible certified last November by the commission, probably will be decided after a public hearing before the commission. Mr. Bancroft has asked that the position be exempt from the civil service, and the commission is required by law to hold a public hearing, giving ten days' notice, before granting any such request.

The position pays $2,500 a year; and has been vacant ever since the death of Mr. Tucker by drowning in the latter part of last August, except for a short time that it was occupied under temporary appointment by B. J. Cawley. The three eligible certified last November by the commission, were W. W. Gilman of Doushott, J. T. Dittmar of Elroy and Ernest N. Warner of Madison. On account of the illness of Judge Bancroft's accession to the office, Mr. Gilbert deferred appointing anybody, and when Mr. Bancroft took office he announced that he would not make the appointment for some time.

That the exemption will not be allowed is the general impression, as the commission naturally is jealous of its prerogatives and the political reasons of a peculiar nature, the present legislature probably would refuse to exempt the position by statute.

It is not known whether Mr. Bancroft has political objections to the three eligibles, but it is regarded as significant that of the trio, Messrs. Dittmar and Warner are La Follette supporters, and Mr. Gilman is a democrat, while Mr. Bancroft is not on the same side of the factional fence with the remainder of the state officers. Should the commission refuse the exemption and the attorney general seek by mandamus or other legal means to compel the granting of his request, an interesting situation would arise. The attorney general could not defend the commission in its capacity as "selective" for the state, and both sides probably would have to employ attorneys for private practice.

CONFESSES KILLING HER LITTLE BOY BY GIVING HIM ACID

Widow Aged Twenty Three Tells Pitiful Tale Of Her Struggle To Support Child and Herself.

[BY ENTERED PRESS.]

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Mrs. Edith Melber, aged 23, self confessed murderer of her five year old son, George, was brought here from Rochester. She is prostrated in the county jail, and would add nothing to the confession of her husband's crime made to the Rochester police last night.

Mrs. Edith Melber of Schenectady, a Janesville young widow and her story was that she had killed her little five-year-old son by giving him carbolic acid when he had asked for a drink of water and then abandoned his dead body in a swamp near Albany last Monday.

"The woman told a pathetic story of a struggle against poverty and adversity, beginning with the death of her husband two years ago.

"She finally had to put the boy in the children's home, but being unable to pay his expenses, bought the acid, took him to the swamp and gave it to him.

"He just gave one little sob, that was all," she said. "He struggled for a moment, but I held him. Then he slipped from my arms and fell on the ground."

"I stayed with him until he was quiet. Then I kissed him, smoothed his curls and straightened his poor little limbs and went away. I looked back several times, but he lay just as if he was asleep."

Mrs. Melber was traced to Rochester following the identification of the dead boy Friday by his grandfather and his uncle. The uncle told the police that he and his wife were anxious to adopt the boy, but that the mother refused to give him up.

NURSE'S TESTIMONY IN SCHENK TRIAL WAS SENSATIONAL

Witness Stand.

[BY ENTERED PRESS.]

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 14.—Details of the poison plot by which Mrs. Schenk is alleged to have planned to rid herself of her husband for a "younger and society man," were related on the stand today by "Mrs. Klein," the detective-nurse. The witness told a graphic story during which Mrs. Schenk was plainly agitated.

"The story of the intimacy between Mrs. Schenk and herself, the wife's complaint of her husband's treatment; her repeated expressions of wish for his death; and finally the deliberate poisoning for his murder was contained in the detective's testimony."

Mrs. Schenk, it was said, offered $1,000 to the supposed nurse to administer the "stuff." When notified her husband was worse, the nurse testified Mrs. Schenk said, "I wish to God he would die." Asked why, she declared Schenk had threatened her for years.

NOTED ARMY MEN TAKE PART IN SUIT

Gen. Roberts and Other Distinguished
British Soldiers Will Be Called
To Testify in Unimportant
Civil Case.

[BY ENTERED PRESS.]

London, Jan. 14.—Field Marshal Lord Roberts, Gen. Sir Frederick Maurice and a long list of other distinguished British soldiers will be witnesses at the trial, soon to begin here, of ex-Sergeant Major Edmundson's suit against L. S. Amery, editor of "The Times History of the Boer War" for damages on account of the charge Edmundson says Amery made to the effect that the former was guilty of cowardice on the field of battle in South Africa.

Edmundson was in a Lancashire regiment when the Boer war broke out and then joined the Middlesex Yeomanry. A company of which he was in command was part of a detachment ordered to make a night march on Lilfontein, where the English were surprised by the Boers.

The sergeant-major's conduct seems never to have been questioned until last January, when he wrote a letter to the voters of East Wokingham urging them to elect Amery, who was a parliamentary candidate in the constituency. Amery responded with the statements concerning Edmundson which the latter says called his courage in question.

The case is of no particular interest in itself but the character of the witnesses called promises to make the trial a most unusual one.

TURKEY IS FACING SERIOUS SITUATION

Many Tribes In and Around Palestine
Are In Revolt and Others Are Joining Revolution.

[BY ENTERED PRESS.]

Jerusalem, Jan. 14.—Official statements to the contrary notwithstanding, Turkey has a most serious situation on its hands with revolting tribes through Palestine, east of the Jordan and the Dead Sea. Announcements that the rebels were yielding amounted to very little. Not many of them yielded at all and most of those who did yield soon resumed hostilities. In addition to this, large numbers who remained peaceful during the earlier fighting are now in rebellion, too.

Only the larger towns are safe from the tribesmen's attacks. Many of the smaller ones have been sacked. It is suicidal to travel through the country districts. Public works of all kinds have been forced to suspend. In fact, a very respectable little war is raging. Altogether, there are probably 25,000 tribesmen in the field.

Of all the rebels, the most unmanageable are the Druses, who inhabit a district in northern Syria, including Mount Lebanon, the western slopes of Anti-Lebanon and the mountainous country southwest of Damascus. Their origin is doubtful. The Druses themselves say they are Arabs from the Yemen but other traditions connect them with the Chinese and the Kurds. At any rate, they have never fully acknowledged Turkey's authority and when the Constantinople government attempted to take a census among them, establish order and enforce conscription there was immediate trouble.

The Avins, Beni Sakhr, Howlat, Juhawleh, Shalakh, Hajaya, Hamayda, Banalla, Saniya, Mannah and other rebels, their mobility and the fact that they are scattered in comparatively small war parties all over the country makes them exceedingly difficult to suppress. Turkey is steadily strengthening its forces in the disturbed region and the end of the struggle is a long way from being in sight.

ROYALTY TESTIFY IN FAMOUS CASE

Dowager Queen of Sweden and Queen of Denmark Will Be Witnesses in Case in Copenhagen Court.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Copenhagen, Jan. 14.—The dowager Queen Sophia of Sweden and Queen Louise of Denmark are among the members of royalty who will give testimony in the famous de la Bruch case, which came up in court here today for trial. For many years the case has been a staple of gossip both in Copenhagen and in Stockholm and the public in both cities is on edge in anticipation of a revelation of the mystery which is said to involve the royal families of Sweden and Denmark.

The central figure in the mystery is Helga de la Bruch, who died some twenty-two years ago, leaving a will in which she claimed to be the daughter of King Gustavus IV. of Sweden and his consort, Princess Fredrika of Baden. The suit is brought by relatives of the woman to establish her status to a part of the fortune in possession of the Swedish royal family. The royal house of Denmark is involved through the fact that Queen Louise was a Swedish princess before her marriage.

Many persons are of the opinion that the claims of Helga de la Bruch were not without foundation. Certainly it is that she enjoyed a state subsidy for many years, was admitted to the highest circles of society in Stockholm, where she was usually referred to as "princess," and was frequently seen in the company of royalties.

For the most part, however, her life was shrouded in deep mystery. As a child she was educated abroad with funds provided from an unknown source. When she came of age she returned to Sweden and continued to live in a state of luxury. A few years before her death, however, her allowance ceased, and she died in apparent poverty.

NEW DREADNAUGHT LAUNCHED TODAY

BATTLESHIP ARKANSAS SLID INTO WATER AT CAM-
DEN, N. J., TODAY.

IS GREATEST OF ITS KIND

Has no Equal Afloat, Surpassing Even English Boat Lion.—Slater, Ship
Now Under Construction.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Camden, N. J., Jan. 14.—Surpassed by none and equalled only by her sister ship now under construction a few miles down the river on the Pennsylvania side, America's latest and greatest warship, the battleship Arkansas, was launched today into the waters of the Delaware river, on whose shores so many of Uncle Sam's formidable defenders have been built. Built by the New York Shipbuilding Company at South Camden, the Arkansas, a sister ship to the Wyoming, under construction at Cramp's shipyard on the Philadelphia side of the Delaware, is about fifty per cent. completed and will be turned over to the government probably before the end of the year.

The launch of the Arkansas was entirely successful and was witnessed by many invited guests, including prominent officials of the Navy Department at Washington, naval officers from Annapolis, Norfolk, New York and other points, and the United States senators and representatives from Arkansas. The sponsor was Miss Marion, daughter of Representative Macon of Arkansas.

The giant battleship slid down the tallows-raised ways with the lightness of a frail lifeboat. As the great bulk plunged into the water wild huzzas went up from thousands of throats, while hands played, guns boomed, and the strains of the shipping assembled in the river joined in the chorus with deafening shrieks of their whistles.

The Arkansas is declared to have no equal afloat as a first class fighting machine. The heaviest man-of-war given to the water so far is the British battleship Lion, which has a displacement of 25,000 tons more than the battleship launched today. The Arkansas, however, will carry much heavier armor than the Lion and in several other respects she is reckoned as superior to the British warship.

The Arkansas has a length of 654 feet, nearly half a hundred feet longer than the Delaware, the first American dreadnaught. The beam is 82 feet 3 inches, the displacement 26,000 tons, and the contract speed 20.50 knots.

She will be the first battleship of the United States Navy to carry twelve 12-inch guns. These guns, comprising the main armament, will be mounted in five turrets on the central line of the ship. Two of the turrets will be forward, one amidships and two aft. Each turret will be protected by armor eight and twelve inches thick and will be supplied with ammunition by electrical hoists from the magazines and shell rooms immediately below. The entire handling of the great guns will be by electric motors. Twenty-one 6-inch guns, protected by armor will be provided for defense against torpedo boat attacks. Close submachine guns and strong bulkheads will form additional protection against mine and torpedo explosions.

The Arkansas will also be fitted with submerged torpedoes (tubes and will have ten small guns for boat service and sailing purposes. The main armor belt of the great ship will be about eight feet wide, with an average thickness of ten inches. Above this will be another belt of an average thickness of nine inches and still higher will be the heaviest armor protecting the secondary battery and funnel bases.

Ten turbines, six for ahead and four for astern, capable of developing 28,000 horse power, will be installed. Steam will be supplied by twelve water-tube boilers and coal or oil may be used for fuel. There will be a complete protective deck from stem to stern. The most complete arrangement for obviating the dangers of turret explosions, firebacks and other accidents which have caused so many disasters in the navy will be used to protect the men who will handle the great guns of the ship. Searchlights equipped with powerful searchlights and her masts will be arranged for wireless telegraphy.

The Arkansas will be fitted for a flagship and her complement as such will consist of a crew of about one thousand of whom sixty will be officers. To make the life of the men below decks as agreeable as possible particular attention is to be paid to the ventilation.

The ship will be up-to-date throughout. She will be lighted by electricity provided with telephones, voice pipes, call-bells, buzzers, gongs, annunciators, engine and steering telegraphs, revolution and rudder indicators, heeling indicators, automatic fire alarms, warning signals and alarm signals. All of these devices will be electrically operated.

WAS SENTENCED TO A MONTH IN PRISON

"Count" D'Aulby, Accused of Fraud in Sale of Pictures, Receives A Light Sentence. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Tours, France, Jan. 14.—"Count" D'Aulby de Gontigny was convicted today and sentenced to a month's imprisonment. He has been in jail nine months awaiting trial. D'Aulby was accused by the Duchess de Choiseul Prullin with a fraud in the sale to her late husband, Charles Hamilton Palmer, of Boston, of a collection of pictures. Later the Duchess withdrew complaint but the prosecutor refused to stop proceedings. The defendant maintained if the pictures were not what he represented it was because he had been deceived himself. As D'Aulby has been more than nine months in jail awaiting his trial, he was given his freedom. The judge announced he had found D'Aulby guilty of fraud in connection with the sale of one picture.

HEALING BY MUSIC

Dyspeptic Eats to Tune of "Old Oaken Bucket."

Another Sufferer in Hospital Relieved of Pain by Strain "Last Rose of Summer" in Musical Tests on Sick.

Philadelphia.—The newest science, which is also one of the oldest, is the science of healing by music. Tests are being made in the Samaritan hospital under the supervision of the Rev. Dr. Russell Conwell, its president, famous for his eloquence on the lecture platform.

Nurses who aided in making observations unite in testifying to the beneficial effect of certain musical airs upon the temperature and pulsations of patients and the evil and depressing influence of other tunes.

They found that "I Know My Redeemer Liveth" brought patients out of trances of anaesthesia with none of the nausea and feverish symptoms that usually attend an awakening.

They found that fever was abated and restlessness reduced by "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton;" that "Dixie" calmed a patient who had delirium, and that "Swanee" and "The Last Rose of Summer" sent pain-racked invalids into soothing slumber.

The following is a partial list of well known hymns and musical selections reported to have been found helpful to sick and well persons alike: "The Old Oaken Bucket," "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," "Listen to the Mocking Bird," "Dixie," "Jimmie," "The Last Rose of Summer," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Old Folks at Home," "My Mary," "Yankee Doodle," "America," "Auld Lang Syne," "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," "Rock of Ages," "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "Shall We Gather at the River," "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth."

The following were found to be injurious: "Dead March" from "Saul," "Home Sweet Home," "Do They Think of Me at Home?" "Old Cabin Home," "Old Black Joe," "Star Spangled Banner," "Auld Lang Syne," "Am I a Soldier of the Cross?" "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone?" "Jesus, I My Cross Have Taken," "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me," and "Stand Up for Jesus." The hymn, "The Hour of Trial," was found to be one of the most depressing in the list.

In one experiment, nineteen patients were brought into one ward suffering from all kinds of diseases. Several were under the effects of morphine or other anaesthetics. A soloist sang, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." The effect on the patients was soothing and pleasant, although no special note was made of the effect on the heart action. These patients under the influence of morphine began to awaken, without fear or wandering of the mind.

One patient, a dyspeptic unable to take food, was found to be so far influenced by the playing of "The Old Oaken Bucket" that she was able to eat.

Another, partly insane, became calm and reasonable while the organ played "Dixie."

Branching Out.

"So your daughter has given up her piano studies?" "Yes," replied Mrs. Cumrox; "I have thought the matter over and doubt the desirability of letting it be understood that we are compelled to economize and depend on home-made music."

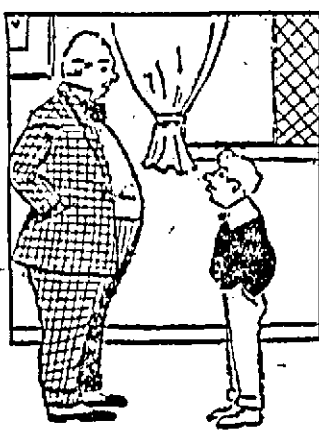

A Matter of Sex.

"What is the difference between firmness and obstinacy?" asked a young lady of her fiancé. "Firmness," was his gallant reply, "is a noble characteristic of women; obstinacy is a lamentable defect in men."—Stray Stories.

BOMB BLAST ON FERRY

Unknown Man Explodes Bomb on California Ferryboat.

One Man Blown to Pieces and Six Others Hurt, Two of Whom Will Die of Their Injuries.

San Francisco, Jan. 14.—An unknown man went into the lavatory of the ferryboat Berkeley just after it left this city for Oakland and exploded a dynamite bomb. He was blown to pieces and six other men in the room were badly injured. Two of them will die. One man had his right arm blown off while another lost both legs and is otherwise mangled. The other injured are less seriously hurt. The Berkeley carried about 2,000 persons, mostly commuters on the way home from business in the city. The explosion, which shook the vessel from stern to stern, caused something of a panic, which quickly subsided when it was found that the vessel was in no danger.

FIVE KILLED IN WRECK

Train from New York to Chicago Meets With Disaster.

Officials Say Disaster Was Caused By Second Train Running Past Signals—Two Hurt Seriously.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 14.—As a result of a rear-end collision between two passenger trains on the New York Central railroad at Bitavia, five passengers are dead, two of whom have not yet been identified and twenty injured, two of whom are not expected to live. Railroad officials say the accident was due to the engineer of the second train running past signals. The trains in collision were No. 27, the western express from New York and No. 49, the Boston and Buffalo special. Those killed were asleep in the Pullman and were ground to death instantly. The wreckage caught fire and this together with escaping jets of steam from the engine boiler, so mutilated and charred the bodies as to make identification difficult.

WOMEN GRAVE TOYS

Children Show Preference for Scientific Devices.

Youngsters Call for Aeroplanes, Kites and Models Where Electricity Supplies Power—Reason for Boom.

London.—Simple "silly" toys are all the rage just now.

The Teddy bear is responsible for the boom, and following him a host of simple, unbreakable, woolly animals, manikins and "babies" have sprung upon the toy market.

Cheap mechanical clockwork toys and things that "windup" seem to have temporarily lost favor with children.

Boys up to twelve years of age, girls of all ages, and even grown-ups have taken a violent fancy to the cloth or woolen toy which can be punched, kicked, sat on or kissed without ill effects, either to the owner or to the toy.

Inquiries made at the leading London toy shops show that during the coming winter season the simple toy will be the chief article sold.

At one large Regent street establishment one side of the shop is already stocked with "silly" toys, and in a few days' time hundreds more will arrive—lions, elephants, bears, sheep, dogs, rabbits, etc.—costing anywhere from 25 cents to $15 each.

"The simple toy is having an undoubted boom just now," said the manager. "These toys are really intended for babies, but I have known ladies to fall in love with them and buy them for themselves."

"While the craze is certainly affecting the sales of cheap mechanical clockwork toys, it has not hurt the scientific toy trade.

"It seems that children nowadays either like an extremely simple toy, or a really 'brutal' amusement, such as making electrical experiments, putting toy aeroplanes together, or scientific kite flying."

Popular "silly" toys already selling well are "Baby Bumps," fitted with a "Can't-break-em-head," and a very live looking duck called a "Puddle-duck." Each of these toys has been bought as a mascot by ladies and taken out in motor cars.

An interesting reason for the boom in simple animal toys was given by an enthusiastic theatergoer.

"I have like the 'Blue Bird,' 'Pinkie' and the 'Purples,' and 'Peter Pan,' in which animals possessed of wonderful intelligence are seen on the stage, have a considerable influence over children," he said.

"In the 'Blue Bird' animals such as the cat, dog, and horse are made to possess a soul. They reason and argue like human beings.

"Now the successful toy manufacturer endeavors to put this live, soulful quality into his goods—he makes the cloth dog or rabbit as 'cute' and life-like as possible.

"It is the soulful quality of these toys—if I may so express it—which attracts. I have known ladies positively rave over a fluffy little cloth dog, making it sit by them at dinner and talking to it for hours in 'baby' voice."

Eagles in England.

Eagles in England are protected, and a young fellow robs seven days for robbing a nest on the famous Cragside Rock at Avonmore. While the old eagle was away one of her two young was taken and kept as a pet for three months, but the bird ate two rabbits a day, so it was sold as too expensive, and the sheriff got wise.

BREAKS A COLD IN JUST A FEW HOURS

Proves Quinine is never effective in the cure of a severe cold or the Grippe.

Nothing else that you can take will break your cold or grippe so promptly as a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

The most miserable / neuralgia pains, headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distress begin to leave after the very first dose.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

The union thanksgiving service, held in the city late in November, was a disappointment to the pastors of the churches represented, because of meager attendance and lack of interest.

"The week of prayer," observed the first week in January, in compliance with long established custom, was equally disappointing because the attendance was less than three per cent of the membership and constituency represented.

It is no time in recent history has the lack of interest in the ordinances of the church, been more apparent than at the present time, and the indifference is manifest in both financial and moral support.

The spirit of indifference is confined to no particular part of the country, but is widespread, presenting a problem which has thus far baffled solution.

The Methodist church, with its nineteenth-century bodies, and six and a half million members, perhaps comes nearest the masses than any other denomination, save the Catholic and Lutheran.

They are book of this strong organization, recently published, is a revelation along the line of lack of growth, which perhaps compares with equal force to other churches.

The Methodist Episcopal church, the strongest in this group, has three and one-half million members, and about the same number of scholars in its Sunday schools.

It has church property valued at $200,000,000, supports some 20,000 pastors, and spent last year for running expenses $21,500,000.

The gain in membership during the year was less than one and one-third per cent and the statistician figures that this accession cost the church $50 per head in administrative expenses. That beats a "Bible" Sunday revival from a financial standpoint.

One writer, in commenting on retarded growth, charges responsibility to the lack of intelligence and common sense in dealing with the large army of children in Methodist homes, claiming that a large percentage of them are lost to the church because the way is made so difficult.

This defect is recognized and deplored by the bishops and leading men in the church, but the average pastor clings tenaciously to old methods and demands conversion of the child as the only passport, and as a result the average child in normal condition, stays out, and is lost to the church of his fathers.

The day has passed when large accessions to the church are secured through revival effort, but the time was never more opportune than now for winning recruits from the new generation, soon to be active in the busy thoughtfulness of life.

The line between the home and the church is an imaginary line, and the church should be encouraged to cross it so easily and naturally that the home-like atmosphere would environ him. Make it easy for him to get in, and then hold him by the bonds of love and sympathy, so that he will have no desire to get out.

The mission of the church is variously estimated. Many good people believe that its principal mission is to save people from the wrath to come, and land them safely inside the pearly gates with a crown and harp, fully equipped for a heavenly journey.

It is to be hoped that these good people may not be disappointed, but the mission of the church means vastly more than that.

As an organization, regardless of creed, it stands out as the great exponent of the common brotherhood, not in any supernatural way, but in the most natural flesh and blood relations.

The boy who comes into it from the playground demands recognition along the lines of least resistance. He is full of the life that is, and has no thought of the life to come. The church can help the home to keep him pure in thought and action.

The busy man who finds himself in the sanctuary, fresh from the field, of conflict where the perplexing problems of life absorb thought and attention, is more interested in the warm hand clasp, and the practical suggestions, that may help him in the struggle tomorrow, than in all the platitudes of supernatural existence.

The tired mother seeks the church for human sympathy, which she may not always find in the home. She needs the word of encouragement to aid in bearing the burdens which oppress her now, however strong her faith and hope in the life to come.

There is no difference between church people and other people, so far as human need is concerned, and the accident of birth is largely responsible for our beliefs and creeds.

Simply one large family, more or less dependent upon each other, apprehending love and kindness, while struggling along the highway, striving to maintain a foothold. The highest mission of the church is to help humanity to find a heaven here and now.

The Rev. H. M. Vaughn, while pastor of the local Baptist church, some years ago, became impressed with the notion that the people were attempting to support too many churches. He gathered statistics throughout the state, which had to do with his own and other denominations, and gave results in a carefully prepared lecture, which was later published in pamphlet form.

He found that almost every town and village was represented by from three to half a dozen weak and struggling churches whose energies were exhausted in trying to support a half-paid pastor.

The situation was not new, and these conditions are not confined to Wisconsin. Mr. Vaughn decided that they were deplorable, and urged as a remedy that these weak societies come together in one strong organization, but he soon discovered that there's nothing quite so narrow as a church creed.

This multiplicity of weak churches is a handicap in more ways than one. The starvation salaries paid keep young men from entering the ministry and drive out many already enlisted in the work. Fifty-seven young pastors in Iowa tendered their resignation at a Methodist conference last fall to enter other work where they could support their families.

There is strength in numbers and in united effort and if the time ever comes when loyalty to creed is sacrificed for the broader work of helping humanity to live the life of today, much more good will be accomplished.

"How to build up a country church," is told in the "World's Work" by Pastor McNutt, after ten years' experience in a little town where he found conditions very much as they exist in almost every town.

"Despairing of changing the preconceived notions of the older members of the community about the church and about country life, he concentrated his efforts on the younger generation. He sought the development of the musical talent of the young people and encouraged them to take up public speaking and amateur theatricals. Of the latter, Mr. McNutt says: 'These home-talent entertainments have proved to be more popular than the attractions we get from the lyceum bureaus, some of which cost $100 a night. We have had audiences of between four and five hundred persons.'

"Athletics, too, were encouraged, and on almost any Saturday afternoon in summer a baseball game might be found in progress. The annual field day is one of the notable events of the year. Mock court trials are held by the young men's Bible class, and there are old-fashioned spelling bees and story nights. In the absence of the pastor the young men take charge of the Sunday service. The interests of the women are not neglected and various activities have been inaugurated for them. The church is, in fact, made the social center of the neighborhood. The greatest day of the year is the annual meeting on the third Saturday in March. This gathering has for its principal object the development of inspiration and fellowship, and the whole countryside assembles in full force.

"As a result of Mr. McNutt's ten years of labor, a new church has been provided at a cost of $10,000 to which everyone in the community contributed—Protestants, German-Lutherans and Catholics. The membership of the church has doubled, the attendance at Sunday school tripled, and the pastor's salary has been increased to per cent. Aside from the great advancement made in the moral and intellectual life of the community, the movement seems to have paid financially, for property within reach of the church is in great demand, with few residents willing to move away."

Not less spiritual but more humane, meeting the boys and girls on the plane where they live and directing them through loving comradeship in ways of helpfulness to develop clean and wholesome lives, good for the life of today and hopeful for the life to come.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

HE AND SHE.

They loved each other. There was no doubt about that. She trusted him perfectly. And he was proud to work for her.

When they were married he was getting a fairly good salary, which was increased from time to time.

By and by children came to them. It took all of his salary to pay the bills, but they had enough and were contented and happy.

Sometimes she would wonder what might become of her and the children if he should die. And once she timidly broached the question of life insurance.

"Why," said he, "I am young and in good health and able to protect you all. If I were getting along in years there might be some need. Old man Smith over there, I think, ought to carry some insurance, but I have years ahead of me."

Besides, he said, insurance was expensive and he could not afford it just now.

And then one day the unexpected happened. And when the funeral expenses were all paid there was nothing left. The neighbors were very kind, but they had troubles of their own.

And then for the first time she faced the real problem of how to make a living.

Sadly she realized their mistake. Had he left her a few hundred dollars to tide over the family expenses until she could adjust herself to the new conditions—

But now—She must, if possible, keep the brood together. And pathetically she strove to do that.

She was not able to learn the dress-making art. And what she earned as a helper and then at plain sewing was not enough to keep the children.

A gift agent induced her to try canvassing, and she rang many doorbells and almost begged for admission. Sales were few.

In despair she took the two younger children to a home for friendless children, where, with breaking heart, she signed away her rights to her flesh and blood.

Poor she!

Sometimes she wishes for a living, and sometimes she is justness of a floor in an office building.

A faithful story? It is almost literally drawn from life and can be duplicated in the stories of every day.

And the moral of it—O man—lies in its application.

Tolling away when the year is now; tolling away when its journey's through, that is the way TOILING that we pilgrims do, tolling away on the wind-swept hill, doing our tasks in the noisy mill, hoping for rest when the looms are still, tolling away, away. Tolling away at the fertile loam; guiding our ships o'er the spray and foam, saying a prayer for the ones at home, tolling away, away; tolling away in our humble sphere, all through the long, long weary year; smiling a bit when the night is near, tolling away, away. Tolling away for our daily bread, tolling away when our hopes are dead; tolling away till we go to bed, tolling away, away; tolling away for our wages dim, tolling away when our eyes are dim, tolling away till the evening hymn, tolling away, away. Tolling away! 'Tis our end and aim! Tolling away for an honored name! Tolling away is the human game, tolling away, away! Here on the vessel the ropes we call; here on the meadow we plow the soil, thankful that we have the strength to toll, tolling away, away!

SMALLPOX IN HOSPITAL

Many Inmates of Chicago Hospital Exposed to Disease.

Virus Injected Into Arms of 1,700 Patients and 300 Employees by Wholesale Vaccination.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Smallpox has been discovered in the county hospital. One hundred and five patients and many attendants have been exposed to the disease.

Internes at the hospital were busy vaccinating every patient and attendant at the institution. They injected the virus into the arms of 1,700 patients and 300 employees. The only persons who escaped were the members of the county civil service commission, which is investigating conditions at the hospital.

Myron McNeil, 37 years old, was the patient who contracted the disease. He had been in the hospital since Nov. 26, but it was not until two days ago that he was found to be suffering from smallpox. Ward 20 was quarantined and McNeil isolated from the patients.

Physicians at the hospital admitted that all the patients in the ward, and many others at the hospital, had been exposed to the infection, and immediately warned all internes to use great care in diagnosing cases; The vaccination by wholesale followed.

STEEL EARNINGS SMALLER

Reduction of $9,000,000 Compared With Third Quarter of 1910.

New York, Jan. 14.—The directors of the United States Steel corporation will meet on the last Tuesday of the current month for the purpose of acting on dividends and the report for the quarter ended Dec. 31.

Based upon operations of the mills in December, it is likely that earnings will fall considerably below recent estimates. The consensus of opinion in steel circles is that the report will show earnings of between $28,000,000 and $29,000,000, a reduction of about $9,000,000, compared with the third quarter of 1910.

Heroism Under Knife.

Heroism on the operating table is generally regarded as a necessary display of fortitude and therefore not calling for particular mention. Its finest examples come under the observance of only a very few persons at best, and these few generally forget quickly what they have witnessed in preparing for another operation.

There is nothing particularly thrilling about it, no attending battles or self-sacrifice or catastrophes to lend it color and attract attention.

True Love.

To Remove Mildew.
If kid gloves have become spotted with mildew they should be placed in a bottle with a lump of ammonia about the size of a walnut; cork the bottle tightly and leave them for a short time, when the mildew spots will quite disappear. If left too long, however, the ammonia will rot the stitches; so they must be watched. An air-tight box will do equally well as a bottle.

COMPLAINT AGAINST TELEPHONE COMPANY

Violation of City Ordinance Charged in Complaint Filed Against Wisconsin Telephone Co.

At the instance of Chief of the Fire Department H. C. Klein, City Attorney H. L. Maxfield has filed in municipal court a complaint against the Wisconsin Telephone company, that the new construction work of the company on South River street is not being carried out in accordance with the requirements of the city ordinance which states that the overhead wires of the telephone companies must be placed forty feet above the street on certain streets within the fire limits of the city. The streets so named in the ordinance are East and West Milwaukee streets, North and South Main streets and North and South River streets, extending within the fire limits of the city. The hearing has been set for Saturday, Jan. 21, at ten o'clock in the municipal court.

BUSY DAYS COMING FOR THE TREASURER

Many Tax Payments Yet to Be Made to City Treasurer Fathers During Rush of Month.

A terrific rush the last week of this month to make the payments on city tax assessments is the prediction of City Treasurer James A. Fathers. Thus far the payments have not come in as rapidly as last year at this time and it will mean that the city treasurer will have his time more than occupied if all payments are made in time. January is the tax-paying month, a penalty of three per cent of the amount of taxes being added for taxpayers who do not pay by the first of February. Janesville has about 3,300 taxpayers. Of this number, 1,300 had paid today, less than one half, and but little more than half the month, as far as days on which the treasurer's office is open are concerned, remains. Usually, however, there are a few who delay settling their account with the city until February.

HAVE ICE WORKERS CONSUMING THIRST?

Two Appear in Court With Tales of Terrible Thirsts They Had Satisfied.

Judging from the reports of men brought into court for drunkenness, preparation for and the proper manner of completion of work in harvest, too, is by resorting to the flowing bowl until a good-sized thirst is quenched. Witness to this fact was established this morning in municipal court. Thomas McIntyre of Baraboo, who said he had been working on the ice at Madison, admitted that he had poured down too much Janesville liquor while waiting to get a job and went to jail for seven days in lieu of payment of a fine of $3 and costs. "Four days to sober up in, and then you can go to work on the ice, I guess," was the reply of Judge C. L. Fildes to James (Jimmy) Clarke when Clarke asked to be let off to assist in the harvest. Clarke's "normal" condition and appearance seemed to merit the judgment of the court.

Mrs. Matilda Lenz was this morning examined by Drs. H. B. Buckmaster and Charles Sutherland at her home on Western avenue to determine as to her sanity. The examination was ordered by County Judge J. Mrs. Lenz was an inmate of the county asylum when Dr. Buckmaster was superintendent there twenty-four years ago.

LOCAL CHINAMEN WILL RETAIN CUES

Were Not Aware of Order of Mayor of Chinatown to Sever Time Honored Braids.

Local Chinamen are undisturbed by the order which was sent out by the Mayor of Chinatown in Chicago, to the effect that all cues should be severed in accordance with the Imperial order which was issued some weeks ago. In fact, the former residents of the Celestial kingdom who live in this city were not aware of the fact that any order had been given. Consequently they intend to retain their long braids and be on the safe side. What's the use, anyway, of parting with something which has become sacred by hundreds of years of tradition and custom. It takes a long while to break away from such time honored habits and as long as there is no one to bother it is just as well to live oblivious of changes in other parts of the world.

One of the younger Chinamen of the city, Woy Pong, by name has ruthlessly cut off his braid and when interrogated regarding the cause he said succinctly, "Too dirty." The older men, however, retain their cues and are undisturbed by reports from newspaper reporters or other inquisitive and garrulous citizens, that they may be severed without involving any danger but rather being according to order of the Imperial officials.

Chinamen here do not take any newspapers and have no time to read. They pay strict attention to business and do not bother their heads about foreign matters.

AUDITORS ON THE INTERURBAN CARS

Traffic Men Have Been Keeping Track of Business Done by Interurban During Last Week.

Auditors have been placed on all the cars of the Rockford & Interurban company operating between Janesville and Rockford and have been keeping count of the traffic on the line during the past week. By this method the company can secure definite data regarding the number of persons carried per mile, and the cost of carrying a passenger one mile, which will be of value in the determination of rates. C. C. Shookley, traffic manager of the road, was in the city yesterday but made no statement regarding the purpose for this move on the part of the company. It is thought possible by some that the company may be gathering data to be used as a basis in the case of Shookley vs. the Interurban company, the hearing of which will be scheduled sometime after the first of February.

NOT MUCH MARKET FOR DAIRY BUTTER HERE

People Do Not Buy Home Churned Kind and Farmer Sells Milk to Creameries.

That there is a falling off in the supply of dairy butter in this part of the state is a certainty but it is also certain that there is a lack of demand commensurate with this scarcity. Sales show that the people are demanding less of the farm product and are buying more of the creamery butter and it is a well known fact that the farmer of today does not churn his butter for the market but sends his milk to the creameries.

In short, there is a scarcity of dairy butter but if there were more the merchant could not use it. However, in the eastern part of the state the farmer not only sends his milk to the creameries but a large part of them ship to Chicago.

While the local potato market is and has been low, it bids fair to remain about the same for a while at least. Eggs have taken a drop of one to three cents.

The oranges on the market at the present time are the Florida kind but in about a month will be superseded by the naval variety from California.

INVASION OF CROSS "S" RANCH TERRITORY.

WARD D. WILLIAMS RETURNS FROM SOUTHWEST TEXAS WITH PARTY OF WISCONSIN PEOPLE.

Ward D. Williams, Northern Manager of Cross "S" Ranch Farming Company, has returned from Southwest Texas, with a party of Wisconsin people, who accompanied him on his recent trip. Mr. Williams is very enthusiastic in regard to development and progress taking place in the Artesian Belt, and in an interview today said:

If the splendid type of Southern Wisconsin Farmers and business men, the suburban employee, or the man who works for wages, could realize and appreciate the wonderful opportunities for homes and investment in the Great Artesian Belt of Southwest Texas, it would take a special train twice each month to carry these people to this district.

There is an old saying, that a man's two eyes are better than two hundred arguments, and the truth of this old saw was never illustrated in a more forcible manner than in connection with what is taking place in the Sunny Southwest.

You can talk to a man, you can show him photographs, you can present to him reliable evidence and statements from parties in whom he has absolute confidence, but still you cannot get under his belt. People can read about beautiful paintings, but when that old stage coach swings around the bend into the great canyon, there is something that grips a fellow, and makes him sit up and take notice. This can truthfully be said of the man who makes a trip to Southwest Texas. The Land Bug lands him and after he has spent two or three days in personally investigating and seeing what has been accomplished in a period of two years time, he realizes what it means to locate or invest in a section that has climatic conditions outrivalling Southern California, fertile soil and an inexhaustible supply of pure water.

The owners of Cross "S" Ranch have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars up to the present time in developing this wonderful property. Excellent roads have been cut through and two railroads have been built, traversing the center of the Ranch from North to South and East to West. One of these roads connects with the Great Southern Pacific System at Euclid, and the other traverses the Ranch from East to West and connects with the Gould lines at Gardendale.

This insures a fair freight tariff and the best marketing and shipping facilities in the entire State of Texas. Second in importance to the building of these two railroads, the owners of the Cross "S" Ranch have secured the services of Prof. Fred F. Mally, Professor Mally is a man who enjoys a national reputation and is an expert on irrigation, fruits and vegetables.

Until recently, he was at the head of the Agricultural Department of the State of Texas, has been connected with the Government service, has served as President of the Texas Truck Growers Association, has employed the distinction of being on the faculties of some of the best Agricultural Colleges in the United States, and his writings have appeared in the leading periodicals and magazines of the country.

Professor Mally is carrying on a great work in organizing associations for the marketing of products raised on the Ranch, insuring the producer a good price for his product at all times, where heretofore he was robbed by the unreliable middle man and commission merchant. He is organizing the farmers on the Ranch into different associations and they hold weekly meetings to determine what product will be put in at a certain time and when it will be shipped, in order to insure earliest lots leaving on a certain day.

Cross "S" Ranch producers being connected with the Texas Truck Growers Association are protected in every respect on what they raise. Shipments being made in carload lots and the amount received from such shipments goes into a pool, so that, for example, the market on Bermuda Onions being good at Pittsburg and poor at Omaha, a general average is determined and the producer obtains his honest share.

"We do not care to sell any of Cross "S" Ranch farms until the prospective buyer has made a personal investigation on behalf of himself and friends," said Mr. Williams. "We have a motive in this, as every one who takes an interest in Cross "S" Ranch becomes an enthusiast and immediately interests his closest friends and relatives in our proposition."

We can take a prospective buyer to any number of farmers who one year ago purchased Cross "S" Ranch land for $50 an acre secured their water, put in crops and received their first market last August and April. Go to these men today and try to buy their land at $200 an acre and they will laugh at you.

Certainly if such conditions exist as we represent, it would be foolish to take people there unless we could "make good," as that would be business aside and if conditions exist as represented, a man who wishes to make money should at least investigate personally.

There is no fuel to buy and the saving on coal alone would keep a man and his family in this country for several months. A man has no collar to build under his house as he can raise at the cost of your own hair in his garden to supply his table.

There is no limit to the possibilities existing on the Ranch. The finest grade of Figs, Oranges, Grapefruit, Pampas, Apples and other citrus products grow in abundance in the district south of the Ranch and to make a long story short, the thing to do is for a man to pack his grip, get on the train and either prove Cross "S" Ranch organization a "bunch of good boys" or having the best proposition on the market today."

Mr. Williams is leaving for Cross "S" Ranch territory with another party of Wisconsin people on next Tuesday morning.

E. F. U. Installation: Monday evening at Caledonian rooms will occur installation of officers of the E. F. U. All members requested to be present. After installation a card party will be given.

HEALTHY GAIN IN POSTAL RECEIPTS

Five and One-half Per Cent Increase Shown in Annual Report.

The total receipts of the Janesville postoffice for the past year show an increase over those of 1909 of $2,550.41 or a gain of five and one-half per cent. These figures were given out by Postmaster Valentine this afternoon. The total receipts for 1910 were $54,478.32 and those of the preceding year $52,327.91. The receipts for the first and second quarters show a falling off from those of 1909 and may be accounted for by a decrease in the retail business. Those for the third and last quarter show an increase of about 20 per cent over the same period in 1909. The receipts by quarters for the two years were as follows:

March 31st	$12,263.31	$13,142.43

Sept. 30th	12,463.79	13,081.03
Dec. 31st	14,787.33	16,758.56

The results of the money order business were especially good and are as follows: Number of orders issued, 16,916, at a value of $118,541.09; number of orders paid, 15,191, at a value of $101,267.00. This makes a total money order business of $220,308.00.

BURNS BIRTHDAY TO BE WELL OBSERVED

One Hundred and Fifty Third Anniversary of Scotland's Peasant Poet's Birth.

The one hundred and fifty third birthday of Scotland's peasant poet, Robert Burns, falls on January 25, and the event will be celebrated all over the world as perhaps no other birthday of prince, poet, or any other genius is recognized. There must be some striking reason for this universal appreciation of the genius and works of this plain plowman, born and reared in the remote part of Europe. It is not far to seek. He was the voice of the plain people, the genius of democracy, the artificial cry and passion of toil, of love, of the purposes, aspirations, Ullie Shakespeare or Homer, or Wordsworth, or even Byron, sang not of kings and princes, of great ladies and lords, except perhaps as incidentally, but of the joys and sorrows, of the customs, and plays and faiths of the plain people of the farm and workshop; and when he touched on the deeds of heroes, or the creeds of the priests, it was to show their worth and glory as derived from the courage and patriotism of the common people. Burns sang, "A man's a man for a' that" is the Magna Charta of modern democracy and brotherhood while his love lyrics are supreme in the poetry of any purpose.

But Burns was more than merely a tuneful voice full of pathos, and tenderness, in joy and sadness of the people's life, he was Scotland's greatest thinker of an age when Britain and even Europe had few, as Carlyle says, he was the only original man of his age. His "Two Dogs" contains most of the real troubles that underlie the social betterment ideas of today, and his passion for reality as against shams in religion, politics, and social fashions was the expression of the noblest soul of the age.

Besides all this, he was the precursor of Wordsworth, the first to return to reality in modern poetry and literature and the first especially to show man's blood relationship to the little wonders of the field and forest; all that modern nature writers—fakers or orthodox—are telling us now of nature is prefigured in his "Mosses" and "Daisy." Burns was human, wise, tender hearted, manly, morally courageous, a strong yet imaginative type and so he touched the heart of our common humanity.

Our readers will be pleased to hear that Rev. David Benken will speak on Burns and illustrate his works with pictures and songs on the birthday of the poet, January 25.

One Million Dollar Company Organized By Owner of Cross "S" Ranch

To continue the development and improvement of the property. The main office of the company to be moved to Crystal City Texas, located in the center of the ranch.

Doesn't this show co-operation upon the part of the owners with Cross "S" Ranch buyers? One year from today Cross "S" Ranch farms will sell for three and four times the price at which they can be purchased at the present time.

REMEMBER

Our Next Excursion Leaves Janesville On Tuesday Morning
At 7:20, January 17th, Direct to Cross "S" Ranch

You travel in our own cars from Chicago without change. Make your arrangements at once if you wish to make a visit to the Ranch. You go via beautiful Sunny San Antonio, the GREAT WINTER PLAY GROUND of the south, which can be seen now at its best. 48 hours from Janesville you are amid the palms and flowers, in a climate that outrivals Southern California.

READ THIS RECORD EVIDENCE

We reproduce herewith a letter from Mr. W. T. Best, who is now living on Cross "S" Ranch. Mr. Best was formerly a very prominent merchant in North Dakota, moving to Janesville from there, his mother and sister living in this city. This letter was sent entirely unsolicited upon our part, and is simply one of hundreds of letters that are mailed from Cross "S" Ranch monthly from satisfied buyers.

Crystal City, Texas, January 10, 1911.

My Dear Mr. Williams, Janesville, Wis.:

They got the pump working yesterday on the land those Dunkards settled on last excursion and they were so well pleased with the flow of water they followed Mr. Buckingham in town and contracted for another large tract of land. His office was crowded last night and he told me he sold more land yesterday and today through the relatives and friends of the people that came down on the last excursion than they did on the excursion I first came down on.

The buyer for this Dunkard colony, you remember, spent a year and a half traveling looking for a location. This speaks well for Cross "S".

There were 4 pumping engines delivered here last night. I believe forcing these wells with a pump makes them equal to two flowing wells. Mr. Buckingham contract with Dr. Patter for all of sect. 28 except 2 farms. I got for my cousin. Dr. Patter has sold 15 farms on sect. 30 to a friend of his in Vermont that has never been here. He wired he would be here on the 17 excursion with about 10 men and they would, he felt sure, take all of sect. 28.

I was offered $25.00 profit on my river farms. I can put water on this land for $1,100.00. Thank you, I don't want $200 for it. I see too many that got from $300 to $600 for their crop last year.

The weather is grand. We have had every meal since we have been here on the porch except one. It was not too cool then but the breeze kept blowing the lamp out.

We expect 25 Mexicans from over the line tomorrow, hired them for 60c, if they don't get wise coming up and want 90c.

When anyone comes here from Janesville, tell them I will be glad to see them. They will be glad they came. I feel like hugging you for getting me down here.

With best wishes, I am,

Yours Truly,

W. T. BEST.

P. S.—Please start tracer from there, after my car household goods not here yet.

We reproduce herewith the two articles taken from the Crystal City Chronicle of January 5th. Does this show development? Remember the owners of Cross "S" Ranch have reserved 10,000 acres for themselves, and are going to spend one million dollars in further development for the benefit of buyers of Cross "S" Ranch property. When these improvements are made, wells dug and crops planted, a total of two million dollars has been spent by its owners, including good roads, two railroads, artesian wells and other improvements.

Present and Future of Cross "S" Ranch Country

Today's Rush of Development Only a Promise of the Great Things To Come.

(BY DR. E. S. LINK)

"Truly the desert is blooming like the rose." This quaint old prophecy is being fulfilled before our eyes. Five years ago, who could have dreamed of the magical transformation now in process upon the Cross S Ranch? Men and means have been allured by the beckoning hand of nature to produce this marvelous change. From the developments already made and the successes achieved, the evidence is at hand approving to good judgment of the pioneers, who blazed the way for one of the most promising settlements of this great southwestern country. Before a mesquite tree was grubbed from the ground or a cactus cut from the roadside, expert testimony concerning the richness of the soil was so pregnant with promise that timid capital did not hesitate to lay down the steel lines of transportation ever before the great influx of home builders began.

But they are coming now and scarcely a train arrives which does not bring cars of stock, household furniture, agricultural implements and settlers to improve the land.

From what has been done on the big farm, the eye of a seer is not needed to forecast the future, and that future is not far in the distance. A very few years will be required to bring changes of astonishing proportions. Thousands of acres will soon be under close tillage and the bountiful crops of fruits and vegetables from the Cross S Ranch will be known and welcomed in every large market of this continent. The fortunate owners of the small farms will be satisfied with the valuable products of the soil and loathe to part with their possessions.

A large portion of the people who have come to this locality to make their home are above the average in culture and refinement, and they will find time and means to beautify their surroundings with all the glories of this sub-tropical climate.

At no place in our matchless state has nature done more to tempt the energies of industry than in the delightful Valley of the Nueces. We have the rare combination of the essential elements of a prosperous community—climate, water, soil, and when the magic touch of intelligent labor has fulfilled its mission we will have at our command all the possible comforts of human existence. The dry, health-giving, ozone-laden atmosphere will be perfumed with orange blossoms and all the fruits of the Hesperidian family. These are not the dreams of the land boomer or the gushings of overstimulated optimism, but are realities being woven rapidly into the sublime fabric of fixed and permanent facts. Crystal City, the picturesque little capital of the Cross S farm, is already responding to the development of the adjacent roads. It is stepping along at a vigorous pace and ere long will be a glittering gem in the crown of Southwest Texas. It is destined to be the winter home of northern tourists and an important health resort for those who would escape the icy clank of winter and enjoy the flower garden of the South. Crystal City is growing and the silence of the past has been broken by the hum of industry. The music of the carpenter's saw and the rattle of the mechanic's hammer augur the approach of an early day when improvements will radiate from the present boundaries and magnificent homes will continue to arise until the suburbs of the city beautiful will be expanded far beyond where the rabbit now hides in his quiet brush pile.

FARMING COMPANY TO BEGIN BIG WORK OF DEVELOPMENT

Half Section to be Planted in Cotton—Finest Nursery in the State to be Established—More Wells Are Planned by Million Dollar Organization.
TAKEN FROM CRYSTAL CITY CHRONICLE OF JAN. 5, 1911.

Half a section to be planted in cotton this season as a demonstration of the value of artesian lands for growing this staple; the establishment of the finest nursery in the entire State of Texas; the boring of many additional wells, and the laying out of two new town-sites, one at the Beechy switch and one at New California, constitute a part of the program announced by the Cross S Farming Company, which was chartered a few days ago with a capital of $1,000,000.

Announcement of these general plans was made this week by E. J. Buckingham, president of the company, after formal organization had been effected. The other officers elected at the meeting in San Antonio are: H. L. Howard, vice-president and treasurer, and Carl F. Gross, secretary. These, with Mason Williams, counsel for the Cross S interests, constitute the incorporation.

Additional capital has been secured to back the extended business, which will go hand in hand with the sale of lands to colonists, as heretofore conducted by Mr. Buckingham and his associates.

"I have always maintained that Cross S lands are the best in Texas for cotton," said Mr. Buckingham Tuesday, "and we propose to show just what can be done on a practical scale by planting 320 acres, either in Section 45 or Section 10."

"The nursery will be located on the north half of Section 166, near the Beechy switch, and will be under the personal charge of Prof. Mally, as also the cotton plantation. We will grow there everything that will be needed in the artesian belt that comes from the nurseries and it will be the largest and best equipped in the state."

"Townsites will be laid out at New California and at the Beechy switch on Section 166 and wells will be bored on each of them, so that an adequate water supply will be obtained from the first."

"A number of wells will be bored on the land yet to be sold, two wells on each section, equipped with pumps and everything necessary to irrigate abundantly the adjacent land. This will be particularly helpful to those who wish to make certain that water is available before they move into the new country."

Mr. Buckingham also stated that the remaining unsold land on the ranch will be disposed of at $60.00 per acre, except where water is provided and in those instances the price will be $100.00 an acre.

POULTRY MEN MAKE FINAL ARRANGEMENTS

Preparations are Nearly Complete for the Big Show Which Will Open on Monday.

The final arrangements for the big chicken show were made last night at a meeting of the directors of the Southern Wisconsin Poultry Association, held in McVicar Bros. store, Monday morning. The show will be held in the converted into an exhibiting place of some of the best members of the various breeds in the country. The plans are to arrange the coops differently this year and have them run lengthwise of the building, thus making it possible to have all the birds of one breed in one row of coops. The cooling of the birds will be free to the contestants, the expense being borne by the association.

It is the aim of the authorities to do the best possible by the persons entering chickens, and the expense of caring for the fowls during the show will be the lookout of the association. Judging will begin on Tuesday and all birds should be in the rink by Monday.

Following is a list of the officers, directors and other of those who will have the big show in charge: William McVicar, president; E. N. Fredendall, vice president; P. J. Holt, secretary; George L. Hatch, treasurer.

Directors: J. D. King, Clarence Hommens, Edward Amerpohl, Alex. Buchanan, C. S. Morris, P. H. Kopp, M. J. McCue.

D. T. Helmlich, Jacksonville, Ill., judge; J. D. King, show secretary; Clarence Hommens, P. H. Kopp, show superintendents; Edward Amerpohl, pigeon superintendent.

ARE STATE LAWS IN NEED OF REVISION?

Nils Haugen Member of the State Tax Commission Comments on Present Laws.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Stoughton, Wis., Jan. 14.—That the state of Wisconsin tax laws are antiquated and cannot be enforced because they are not what people want them to be nor do they serve the people of today, was the bulk of a statement made here by Tax Commissioner Nils P. Haugen of Madison in speaking to 140 members of the Norwegian Pioneer Association of Koshkonong at the annual banquet of that organization.

"There are many tax regulations on the statutes today that are not and cannot be enforced," he remarked, "because they are not suited up to date. The laws do not protect us today. I believe that the Germans and Norwegians are more ready today for changes in tax laws and regulations than any other nationality. This is true because they come from well regulated and disciplined countries."

"I don't think the Norwegians are as prone to oppose regulation as the average American citizen. We have supported our government and have been supported more than any other nationality. I am proud to learn that Stoughton has acquired waterpower in the city to increase its electric light plant, municipally owned. You will find it profitable."

"I have yet to hear of the instance where men of our race were accused of cowardice," said State Treasurer A. H. Dahl. "Thrift, intelligence, integrity and honesty were qualities laid down by our fathers for their descendants."

"The pioneers came into this country, not with gold, but with strong arms, level heads and wanted to carve out a portion. They did it. They were law-abiding citizens, patriotic and daring in time of war."

"Be an optimist," said the state treasurer. "There are so many things we should be thankful for and so few that we regret that we all ought to wear a continual smile. I think this is a good thing to practice. Would that there were as few pessimists as traveling men are mentioned in Howard Heccks' stories."

MOODY INSTITUTE GROWING RAPIDLY

Noted Theological Institute in Chicago Is Known the World Over.

With the erection of the present men's building, the purchase of a location for a woman's dormitory and one woman's building in the process of construction, the expectations and hopes of the late Dwight L. Moody of a Bible Training school in Chicago had fair to be realized. This institute which has been termed the "West Point" of Christian work, and whose object is the training of young men and women in the study of the Bible so that they may be of use in the spreading of Christ's teachings, is now attracting pupils from all over the world. Founded by Mr. Moody, one of the world's greatest evangelists, the institute is gaining a reputation as a unique feature in the line of theology.

The founder realized that a large part of our religious work must be done by lay workers. He also saw that there were thousands of young men and women to whom a college education was impossible, but who with a year or two of training in the English Bible, personal work and music might be able to fill many positions of usefulness which their gifts and calling might indicate.

The method is to combine practical training with lectures and study. Mr. Moody being personally a man of one book and having achieved his marvelous success with that alone, naturally felt that the English Bible ought to occupy the first place in the training of men for Christian work. Accordingly the students are required to study the Bible as a whole and each of its parts in particular. They are taught to analyze the books, and to dissect each chapter so as to discover the principal subject and leading lesson.

Furthermore they are shown how to use the Bible in leading men to Christ, and in meeting the various exigencies which arise in Christian work. Each student has from three to five assignments a week for personal work in fields, missions, Gospel wagon or other service, and they are examined on their personal work as well as on their studies. In this way they get an all-round experience which the classroom alone could never give.

The institute might be called a spiritual power house. This is shown in several ways. In the first place, the day starts with the "quiet hour." Then comes public devotion after breakfast and a general prayer meeting after supper. Every lecture, faculty gathering, or business meeting is opened with prayer. On Monday mornings special prayer is made for all the donors of the institute and on Friday evenings for all former students. To this is added the weekly hall meetings on each floor and the weekly band meetings composed of those who are going to various mission fields and the group meetings which spring up spontaneously at all hours and seasons.

After twenty-five years of existence, this institute finds itself well organized and in good condition. All the mission fields of the world are crying for workers and there are ten calls for every man that can be supplied. The Moody Bible Institute is well qualified to train men and women to fill these places.

MOTOR TRUCKS ON DISPLAY AT SHOW

Fourteen Dealers Will Have Exhibits of Various Makes at Big Auto Exhibition in Milwaukee.

Janesville people attending the big automobile show opening tonight in the Auditorium in Milwaukee will be interested in the display of motor trucks, which, it is said, will be of such proportions that it will easily run second to the show of commercial cars at the forthcoming Commercial Motor Vehicle Show in Chicago. The exhibits will be placed in the basement of the Auditorium and will be three hundred per cent greater, so far as models and types of trucks are concerned, than that of a year ago.

Fourteen dealers in business motor trucks, wagons and light delivery vehicles will almost fill the basement with the various models of the advanced type of truck, ranging from the 1000 pound wagon to the three ton dray. The display of this class of power vehicles in past shows has been a negligible one and the show committee of the Dealers Association has determined to make this side of the show as interesting as the show of pleasure cars. The exhibitors in this department will be: The Commercial Auto Company exhibiting several models of the Grammy; Emil Estberg, Buick Motor Company, the Buick; Motor Truck Sales Company, the Sternberg; Ahrens-Cramer Auto Truck Company, Chemical Hosecart, truck and truck chassis; Welch Bros. Motor Car Company, the Packard; C. F. YOUTHFUL BANDIT IN DARING ROBBERY

"Windy" Winslow, An Eighteen Year Old Monroe Youth, Held Up Becker's Store in That City.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Monroe, Wis., Jan. 14.—W. A. Becker's general store, corner Racine and Jefferson streets, was the scene of a hold-up in which four men allowed "Windy" Winslow, an 18 year old youth, to rifle the till and escape before the onlookers came to their senses. The boy entered the store building a revolver which he pointed at the occupants and demanded access to the cash register. He took the available cash amounting to $1.35, and then escaped up Racine street. Marshal Hunt was immediately notified and gave pursuit. The lad was found near the Hall grocery store on Summit street and at first denied the theft, but when taken to jail the money was found in one of his shoes. He refused to state where he had placed the revolver.

The youthful bandit is the son of respectable parents and has refused to go to school, preferring to read and be idle. He has given the officers more or less trouble although they had no idea he would attempt anything as desperate as a hold-up.

Winslow's preliminary hearing will be held Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, before Justice M. B. Baltzer. District Attorney McGrath has decided to make a complaint against Winslow under the section making the offense one of breaking in the night time with intent to rob, which fixes the punishment in case of conviction at from one to three years in the state prison.

You Do Not Realize How Valuable Your Health Is Until You Have Lost It

RAYMOND PUDDICOMBE

We ask you to come and see for yourself. Consultation free. Nature is bounteous in her gifts to mankind, yet those who unknowingly transgress the laws nature has laid down for perfect health must suffer until the cause of the disease is removed.

There is hardly any limit to the power that may be developed within the human body.

It is estimated that not over 5 per cent of the POWER WITHIN is ever developed.

This wonderful POWER WITHIN is contained in the nervous system.

Hundreds of sick ones dragging out a miserable, weary existence, suffering and hopeless have been restored to health by the chiropractic adjustments. No medicine, no cutting, no mystery, simply common sense, that's all. If you cannot come, write at once.

You can be hale and hearty, well and happy, if you will allow us to give you chiropractic (ki-ro-prak-tik) adjustments, which remove the CAUSE of your sickness.

J. N. PUDDICOMBE

Nervous energy is the only power the human body possesses. Thought and intellect are only results from nervous energy and muscle is but a servant under the directions of the nervous system by means of brain impulse.

So far as known the brain impulses through the nervous system is the mysterious spirit called LIFE. The various conditions of life, such as health and happiness, sickness and suffering, depend upon the health of the nerves.

The Chiropractic Adjustments are given to correct subluxated vertebrae of the spine, which stop the flow of nervous energy emitted from the brain to all parts of the body, and which is the life element. It matters not what your disease may be—you can be made well. If you doubt read this letter:

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—

I suffered 9 years ago with a tumor of the left side of my face and upon consulting a prominent physician of Milwaukee I was told that I would have to be operated on as it was incurable and that by an operation I would be free from all my trouble, and was operated on three different times in a year and a half and this same Doctor said that if I would follow it up with the X-Ray treatment I would come out all right. So when I came to Beloit I took X-Ray treatment here three times a week for seven months.

The left side of my face became so paralyzed that I could not move it and my left eye remained open day and night. Then he told me that the muscles of my face were weak and that I would have to wear glasses, and that they would relieve them. After spending about $260 for all of this guesswork I was worse off than I was before I started.

I was advised by friends to try Puddicombe's Chiropractic Adjustment and by taking their advice went and saw Mr. Puddicombe and I am glad I did for I am now a well woman—not only of the paralyzed condition of my face, but of all my other troubles. While taking Chiropractic Adjustments I witnessed cases of all kinds of diseases get well under Mr. Puddicombe's care.

"Silently he turned away from her, and began furling up his wings, and she helped him, as she had helped him that other time when he had tried to convince her that he was not a dream."

"When it was done, they sat out slowly, in the deepening twilight, for the hut."

"It's very good of you to walk down here with me," she said, "you who could fly."

CHAPTER XIV.

The Red-Head Book.

By the time they had reached the headland, the whole beach before them was enveloped in the sulphureous shadow of the cliff, and the little cluster of huts toward which they were trudging was hardly distinguishable. It was not until they had halved the distance that the girl made out the little plume of rose-colored smoke that floated above Philip's newly constructed chimney.

But the next instant he laid a hand upon her arm and, with the other, pointed imperatively down the beach toward the hut. "Whether you saw him before, or not," he said, with a short grim laugh, "you can see him now."

Looking where he pointed, she saw a big, yellowish-white, ungainly thing come lumbering round the corner of the hut, upon all fours.

"A bear," he said, "and a good big one. You're not to be afraid. This is really unmerited good luck."

"Aren't they dangerous, these polar bears?" she asked.

In his answering laugh she heard the ring of rising excitement. "I won't deny," he said, "that I had my way about it, I'd have you safely shut up inside the hut there before I tried conclusions with him. Give me the revolver, and take care to keep out of the line of fire. If you see a chance to slip aside the hut, do it. And don't assume that he's dead until I tell you so. These polar bears have no nerves at all. You can't shock them. They don't stop until you have put their locomotor facilities completely out of business."

Tottered Forward and Collapsed in a Heap.

She was smiling when she handed him the revolver. "Here's luck," she said. "Don't be afraid for me."

Cayley smiled, too. "Keep behind me, but not so far that you're in any danger of getting cut off in case I have to dance around him a little. There he's winded us already."

Cayley turned for a last look at her. He had slipped his bundled wings from his back and laid them on the ice. He was still smiling, but somewhat ironically. "I'm half afraid he'll run away," he said, "and half afraid he won't."

The next instant all doubt on that head was set at rest. The monster hissed and came lumbering toward them, pretty rapidly, across the ice.

Cayley advanced slowly to meet him, but not in a direct line. Instead, he bore off in a curve to the left. The girl understood the maneuver instantly, and, herself, set out landward at a brisk pace, moving in the arc of a circle, parallel to his but larger, in such a way as to keep the bear, Philip and herself, as all three moved in different directions, in a straight line.

They quartered round in this way, the bear howling in well toward Philip, until all three were in a line, about equidistant from the hut. Philip and the bear were, perhaps, a dozen paces apart. Without turning, he called over his shoulder to her, "Now run for it—for the hut. I'll keep him amused out here."

At the sound of his voice the bear rushed him. The girl had never in her life found anything so hard to do as to obey orders now. But she did obey and was running at top speed toward the open door of the hut when she heard Cayley fire for the first time. Just as she reached it, she heard his second shot. When she turned about, panting, to observe the result of it, the two seemed to her to be at horribly close quarters. The bear, reared up on his hind legs, had just lunged forward.

No sprang back clear of the flashings, scythlike cut of those terrible claws. A little to the girl's surprise and considerably to her alarm, he turned and went springing up the beach toward the hut, at full speed, then, bear wounded, but not in the least disabled, lumbering after him.

It took a fast runner to outrun a bear, but Cayley did it. When he reached the foot of the bluff, the bear was 20 paces behind him. She saw him stop short, whirl round again and face his pursuer with a shout.

The bear also checked his speed and reared up once more, towering upon his hind legs. Then Cayley fired twice, the shots coming so close together as to be hardly distinguishable. One or both of them took instantaneous effect. The great yellowish-white mass tottered forward, and collapsed in a heap only a pace or two from where Philip was standing.

He waved his hand at the girl, and walked back for his wings. When she met him, half way up the beach, he was carefully taking the spent shells out of his revolver, one at a time, and depositing them in his pocket. "No telling how they may prove useful," he commented; then, with a quick look into her face, "I hope you weren't frightened when you saw me run."

"I suppose I shouldn't have been, but I'll have to confess that I was. You weren't trying to get away from him, or you wouldn't have run in that direction. But it looked rather dreadful, just the same. Why did you do it?"

"We were too far down the beach, too near the water's edge before. It was too late to skin him and cut him up tonight, and I was afraid if a storm were to come up before morning, a really big storm, we might lose him. It was a lot easier to get him up the beach before I fired those last two shots than it would have been after. I thought at first of running toward the hut. It occurred to me, only just in time, that there was no use in making an abutment of our front yard."

They had reached the hut, and as he finished speaking, they entered it. Even Philip caught his breath rather suddenly with that first glance about its transformed interior. The drift-wood fire, which glowed upon the hearth, filled the whole room with light, and bathed the walls and rafters with warm colors.

Here was their fortress—against the cold, and the dark; a fortress, too, against despair. That rude hearth which he had built today was to be their altar of hope.

The girl stood looking at it a moment in silence, her lips pressed tight together, one outstretched hand groping for the door-jamb behind her, as if she wanted the support of something. Even in this warm firelight she looked a little pale. By an evident effort of will she was breathing very deep and steadily. She did not try to speak.

Cayley understood well enough what it meant. This place that they had come back to for the night was home now, probably the last home she would ever have in the world, if one were to balance the chances fairly. Its warmth and light and comparative comfort did more to enforce a realization of their fragile plight than anything before had done. The thing she was fighting with was a sudden wave of plain terror.

Cayley went out into the little vestibule and closed and bolted the outer door. He contrived to waste a minute or two over the trifling task, in order to give her that moment by herself.

When he came back, closing the inner door behind him as he did so, he found that she had taken off her cap and the heavy fur coat which had encumbered her shoulders all day, and hung them upon a convenient wooden peg in the wall. She was standing near the fireplace now, warming her cold fingers at the blaze.

Cayley started a little at sight of her, for now she was transformed, too. Standing there, silhouetted against the blaze, in her gray cardigan jacket and moleskins, she looked like a young boy. He had discovered before this that there was not a grain of false modesty about her; nevertheless, it pleased him when, with a certain charm of frank simplicity, she called his attention to her costume.

"It's a lucky thing," she observed, "that I dressed for a scramble over the ice before coming ashore with Uncle Jerry and Mr. Seales. And lucky, too, that I didn't change back when we returned to the Aurora. I left it to pulling about for awhile in the dinghy. I'd have done that just the same if I had dressed for dinner that night, as I usually did."

"Yes," he said. "A skirt would have been a pretty serious matter to people in our situation."

"Show me the rest of our house," she commanded presently. "This is the only room I've seen."

The subdivision of the hut was accomplished by an L-shaped partition seven feet or so from the outer wall, around two sides of it. It yielded two tiny, cubical bedrooms (that was the purpose which the wooden bunk in each of them indicated); and a third room of the same width (about seven feet), but running the entire length of the side of the hut nearest the cliff. This room had evidently served for stores and for a kitchen, since part of the reconstructed fireplace projected into it. It was in this last room where the greater part of what the searchers from the Aurora had dismissed as "rubbish" was accumulated.

Cayley did as the girl commanded, and showed her every nook and cupboard which the four walls of the hut contained. When they returned to the living room where the fire was, she dropped down on one of the bunks with a little sigh of fatigue.

"You've been disobeying orders," he said, looking her over with a serious sort of smile. "You've let yourself get too tired. You'll have to make up for it by being exceptionally obedient now."

As he spoke, he shook out the sleeping-bag on the bunk, behind where she was sitting.

"You're to lie down on that," he said, "until I can get supper ready; and directly after supper you're to take this bag into whichever of those bedrooms you would like for yours, and really undress and go to bed."

She assented to that after a little doubt. That he had rightly guessed the degree of her fatigue was attested by the fact that when he reentered the hut after dressing the fowl that was to provide their evening meal, he found her cuddled up upon the great sheepskin, fast asleep.

It was not until his rudimentary culinary operations were about completed that, glancing over to where she lay, he found her regarding him with a sleepy smile.

"I thought of something just as I was dropping off to sleep," she said, "a really beautiful idea. I tried to call out and tell you, but I was too sleepy. I hope I haven't lost it. It was something about—oh, I know. Don't you suppose we might find a clue to where the stores are hidden in father's journal or in the maps?"

He laid down the drumstick he had been about to bite into, and gazed at her, partly in astonishment, partly in a sort of amused dismay that the idea had not occurred to him before. "That suggestion," he said, "is worth the weight of my day's work. Of course that's the way to begin our search—the only way, and tomorrow morning—"

"Tomorrow morning! I thought the worst thing you could possibly say would be after supper. I wanted to let the duck go and begin the search now." She smiled at him. "You'll compromise, won't you, on directly after supper?"

He assented with a laugh. "If you can keep awake, but the first time I catch you nodding."

"All right," she said, "only let's hurry with the duck." Then, a little later, "It can't be possible, can it, that we're going to eat the whole of it at one meal? It's beginning to look that way."

There was one compensation to the rudeness of their fare and the exigency of their equipment. Clearing up after dinner was an operation of extreme simplicity.

When it was completed, Philip heaped more wood on the fire, and in the glow of the crackling flames they spread out the maps and began their search.

"I believe," said Cayley, "that the journal will be worth more than the maps in this search of ours tonight. Anyway, while you work one I can work the other."

Hair Began to Grow Again and Now Has Beautiful, Long Hair.

"When my little daughter was about five years old, she was taken with the measles. A few weeks after the measles were gone, she began to have a severe scalp humor. It itched so that she would scratch the whole day, until the blood came. We had a doctor and tried a good many other remedies, but nothing helped. Her hair all fell out and the scalp itself had an unpleasant odor."

"After we had tried all the other remedies, my wife told me to try Cuticura Remedies. We bought one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. We used the Cuticura Remedies according to directions and in about three or four weeks her scalp was perfectly clear of the terrible humor. MOMENTUM.

It is wonderful how insensible one is to momentum. The earth is traveling in its orbit at the rate of eighteen miles a second. If it should suddenly stop nearly everything on its surface would be hurled off into space, and yet we do not realize that we are traveling at all. The earth is also rotating on its axis once in twenty-four hours. This means on the equator a speed of 25,000 miles a day.

If the rotating should suddenly cease everything loose would be hurled eastward. But the farther north we go the less of this momentum there is until at the pole there is none.

Every one has noticed the momentum acquired in a moving railroad train. While the train continues at full speed he may be insensible to it, but when it is stopping if he walks toward the front of the car he will find himself so thrown forward that he must use considerable effort to hold back, or if he walks toward the rear of the car as its speed is checked it will be with difficulty that he proceeds, because the momentum throws him the other way. In the one case it is like walking down a steep hill, in the other like walking up the same hill.

It is at first mysterious that flies in a railroad car are not immediately left at the rear door when they seek to wing their way from one part of the car to another, but they seem, to have no more difficulty than in a room of a house. This is due to two facts—that, near the passengers in the car, they have acquired the momentum of the train and that the air of the car also has momentum and sweeps them along with it.

When the train is stopping the inclosed air of a car crowds to the front and leaves a partial vacuum at the rear. Two aneroid barometers when the train is under full motion would show the same reading at both ends, but when rapidly slackening speed the one at the front would quickly rise, the one at the rear, would as quickly fall.

Physical Geography.

The following answer was recently given in a geography examination in reply to the question, "From what direction do most of our rains come?"

Most of our rains come straight down, but some of them come sideways.

Better Yet.
Scientists have succeeded in compressing a square meal into a cake the size of a soda cracker.

"That's fine, but it is not exactly what the world is crying for."

"Then what is?"

"The world wants the price of a square meal compressed into a disk the size of a quarter."

The Milk Tyranny.

As an article of diet milk is over-estimated. Man is the only animal who when grown to be adult drinks milk. The cow herself will not drink it except in rare instances. Many horses refuse it. In the wild, if the grown lion or elephant or fox were disposed to dispute with the younglings for possession of the udder he could prevail and rob the sucklings till the race perished.

What a Pity!
Persons who have lost pet dogs beneath the wheels of recklessly driven automobiles will feel greatly pained to learn that a Forest Hill scorcher ran over his own bull pup last Saturday—Jewark News.

Constipation

"For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an injection of warm water once every 24 hours before I could have an action on my bowels. I happily tried Cascaria, and today I am a well man. During the nine years before I used Cascaria I suffered untold misery with internal piles. Thanks to you, I am free from all that this morning. You can see this in behalf of suffering humanity. B. F. Fisher, Kewaukeo, Ill."
